ELL 125 Language and Communication Course Syllabus

Course Description

This course has been designed to help students improve their understanding of spoken English and their ability to communicate effectively. Through exposure to a wide range of audiovisual sources, they will have the opportunity to engage with the structure, morphology and phonetics of the language in native contexts, and to acquire competence in listening comprehension and analysis. In addition, they will learn to develop communicative confidence and fluency, and to refine their pronunciation, through class discussions and speaking drills. With the guidance of the instructor and through various assignments, students will also be encouraged to develop their communicative abilities.

Course Material:

A Course Pack including photocopies from various sources will be compiled by the lecturer and left to the photocopy room for the students.

Final grades will include:

Phonetic Alphabet Quiz	% 10 pts
Impromptu speech*	% 10 pts
Oral Presentation	% 25 pts
Midterm Examination (listening)	% 30 pts
Final Examination (listening)	% 25 pts

*Each student will perform at least two 3-minute speeches without prior preparation, each week a few students are going to be chosen and they will deliver a speech on a topic given by the instructor.

 Each student will perform 1 presentation around 8-10 minutes.
